1. Introduction

The report presents the obtained results in relation to the published articles (scientific, professional, press) that present the ProCESS outcomes. The articles were developed by all consortium partners. In the project three types of articles were created: scientific, professional, and press articles. Each of these articles address a specific target group (HEI teachers, students and researchers, company experts, large audience etc.).

2. Scientific articles

During the implementation period of the ProCESS project a number of 8 scientific articles were developed. The target value mentioned in the project proposal for these articles was 5. The published scientific articles are:
